A Musical Journey to Antarctica

with Antarctic Heritage Trust
Inspiring Explorer Ihlara McIndoe

Inspiring Explorers™ Concert
Thursday 12 May 2022 | 6:00pm
The Piano, Christchurch
& by Livestream

Welcome

Antarctic Heritage Trust is delighted you are joining us for A Musical Journey to Antarctica, featuring five compositions by Ihlara McIndoe inspired by her participation in Antarctic Heritage Trust's 2020 Inspiring Explorers Expedition™ to Antarctica.

Ihlara's beautiful compositions for flute, violin and viola, and full orchestra are accompanied by stunning visuals of Antarctica captured by renowned Antarctic filmmaker and photographer Anthony Powell.

Live performers include Mark Menzies, Professor of Music and Head of Performance at the University of Canterbury on viola and violin, UC performance students Rakuto Kurano on violin, and Marlene Cooper on flute, and Chris Everest from the New Zealand School of Music on guitar.

Ihlara McIndoe

Ihlara is multi-talented. She was selected as the NZSO National Youth Orchestra Composer-in-residence for 2021 and her compositions have been performed in New Zealand, Australia, and Japan.

Ihlara completed her Bachelor of Music at the University of Otago studying piano and composition. Her studies also included a Bachelor of Law and a Bachelor of the Arts (Hons) in Gender Studies.

Ihlara completed her first year working as a lawyer in 2021 for a large firm based in Wellington, New Zealand.

Anthony Powell

Anthony is a multi-media filmmaker, photographer, and camera equipment builder who specialises in all things Antarctic.

Anthony's footage has appeared in numerous exhibits, TV shows, films, and magazines. His debut feature film Antarctica: A Year On Ice won more than 20 international film awards.

He worked for many years as a Communications Technician and Satellite Engineer in Antarctica at both Scott Base and McMurdo Station, before becoming a full-time filmmaker. He has spent ten years physically in Antarctica, including ten winters.
